Course ID: 1714031112      Description: English Grammar (1)

Full Course Description: This course is designed to explain and illustrate the main parts of speech and their grammatical functions in constructing the English sentence. These parts include: the noun, the pronoun, the verb, the adjective, the adverb, the preposition, the conjunction, and the interjection. This will be followed by a study of the basic and the enlarged structures of the English simple sentence, as well as its various moods.

Course ID: 1714031113      Description: Writing

Full Course Description: This course mainly deals with paragraph writing and its components. In some very important ways, this course requires students to begin to work with the type of a more formal language than the one they will use in their full-time academic studies and professional work. Specifically, transitions, subordination and parallelism are taught in addition to the four basic elements of paragraph development, the topic sentence, the controlling idea, unity and coherence. Various text types at a paragraph level are taught, viz., descriptive, narrative, argumentative, literary, and scientific conversational.

Course ID: 1714031130      Description: Introduction to Literature

Full Course Description: This course aims at providing the students with all the different kinds of literature, such as fiction, drama, and poetry, by teaching them various texts that represent these kinds. It also provides a general survey of the historical development of these different kinds, through which students can develop their own critical sense.
