

Courses Description

College: Queen Rania'S Faculty Of Tourism& Heritage

Department: Sustainable Tourism

Course ID: 901799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 3901799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 6901799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 9901799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 150901701 Description: Advanced Topics in Archaeology

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Archaeology □

The course discusses advanced topics in archaeology; it is based on following the updated technology used in archaeology such as marine archaeology, remote sensing, dating methods, ethno archaeology as well as other topics. □

Course ID: 150901702 Description: Bilad Al-Sham Though the Ages

Full Course Description: Levant in Ancient Periods □

This course aims at familiarizing students with geological epochs, environments and topographical features in Levant, then it discusses different human settlement periods with clarifying types of settlements, political, social and economic aspects, that is in addition to religions, arts and writings. The course includes the periods starting from Prehistory (Stone Ages), then Bronze and Iron ages to reach the Persian Period, and finally Classical Periods (Greco-Roman). Also, ancient civilizations of Ancient Near East are generally explained. □

Course ID: 150901720 Description: Practical Training of Archaeological Excavation

Full Course Description: Practical Training of Archaeological Excavation □

This course aims at acquainting students with knowledge and skills concerning archaeological excavation and its methods, also documentation of archaeological features (description, drawing and photographing) , also different methods used in surveys, reading stratigraphy, dating pottery, then relating all these elements together for interpretation, that is in addition to filling locus sheets and different reports. □

□
This course aims at acquainting students with knowledge and skills concerning archaeological excavation and its methods, also documentation of archaeological features (description, drawing and photographing) , also different methods used in surveys, reading stratigraphy, dating pottery, then relating all these elements together for interpretation, that is in addition to filling locus sheets and different reports. □

Course ID: 150901740 Description: The Civilizations of Kinda Lakhminds

Full Course Description: Kindah, Lakhmids and Ghassanids Civilizations □

This course aims at explaining Arab civilizations in Early Christian Period in North Arabia, Levant and Mesopotamia, mainly their political and military existence, as well as the archaeology of their locations as al-Anbar and Edessa. □

Courses Description

College: Queen Rania'S Faculty Of Tourism& Heritage

Department: Sustainable Tourism

Course ID: 150901744 Description: Ancient Arab Civilizations

Full Course Description: Ancient Arab Civilizations □
The course familiarizes students with the archaeology of Arabian Peninsula during the different periods; there will be a focus on kingdoms of south Arabia (Sheba, Qataban, Himyar, Ma'in and Hadhramut) and north Arabia (Didan and Lihyan). The political, social, architectural, and religious aspects of these civilizations will be clarified besides their writing, which is in addition to the relations between them and ancient civilizations of Mesopotamia, Levant and Egypt. □

Course ID: 150901745 Description: Nabataean Kingdom Archasology

Full Course Description: Nabataean Kingdom Archaeology □
The course explains the different civilizations of Nabataea, Palmyra, and Hatra; there will be a full clarification of architectural, artistic, religious, epigraphical, political and economic achievements of these kingdoms. □

Course ID: 150901748 Description: Ethno-archaeology

Full Course Description: Ethno-archaeology □
The course focuses on the adaptation of humans to environmental aspects, basically economic activities and settlement forms; this is to be achieved through comparative approach (past and present). □

Course ID: 150901749 Description: Comparative History

Full Course Description: Comparative History □
The course is based on comparative study of different civilizations and archaeological periods in the Ancient Near East Region to include (Arabia, Levant, Mesopotamia, Egypt, and Anatolia). There will be a focus on ruling dynasties and written texts left by these civilizations. □

Course ID: 150901750 Description: Pottery Manufacturing in Arab Civilizations

Full Course Description: Pottery Manufacturing in Arab Civilizations □
The course clarifies the manufacturing of pottery since Neolithic Period till late Islamic Periods. It gives a full description of forms and characteristics of pottery vessels for each period, centers of manufacturing as well as artistic elements and surface treatment used, that is in addition to the use of pottery in dating. □

Course ID: 150901751 Description: Arab and Islamic Arts

Full Course Description: Arab and Islamic Arts □
The course presents the emerge and the evolution of different forms of Arabian art, the origins of these arts and what culturally relates to them, these include: symbols, motifs, architecture, sculpture, fresco, pottery, numismatics, mosaics, glass, epigraphy and other forms. □

Course ID: 150901752 Description: Seminar in Ancient Near East Topics

Full Course Description: Seminar in Ancient Near East Topics □
The course describes the civilizations and areas of Ancient Near East, it presents different theories on the origins of societies lived there, also cultural aspects related to them (e.g. writings, arts, architecture, legislations...etc), that is in addition to influences of other civilizations in nearby regions. □

Courses Description

College: Queen Rania'S Faculty Of Tourism& Heritage

Department: Sustainable Tourism

Couse ID: 150901753 Description: Pre-Islamic Arab Archaeology

Full Course Description: Pre-Islamic Arab Archaeology□
The course presents different topics related to Pre-Islamic Arab civilizations (politics, economies, societies, and cultures); a general explanation will be given on Islamic Caliphates that existed in following periods. □

Couse ID: 150901754 Description: Ancient Arab Writings

Full Course Description: Ancient Arab Writings □
This course discusses ancient texts and inscriptions of North Arabian nomads (Thamud, Safaitics, and Lihyanites), and settling Arabs (Nabataeans and Palmyrians); a brief explanation will be given on South Arabs writings as Musnad, Ma'inean, Sabaeen, Hadhramite and Qatabanean. Selected inscriptions will be studied to follow the development of Arabic writing from Nabataean to Early Arabic to Kufi. □

Couse ID: 150901799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Couse ID: 2009011701 Description: Methods of Scientific Research

Full Course Description: Methods of Scientific Research□
The essential skills in scientific research, the main methods and strategies of scientific research. he fundamentals of quantitative social science and applied research, although we will also explore qualitative and quantitative methods in research, and the computer skills needed in this regard, and the guidelines for writing theses and dissertations. □

Couse ID: 2009011702 Description: Research Seminar

Full Course Description: Research Seminar□
□
Discuss and generate ideas on issues related to a variety of applied social research. Students conduct an in-depth study of a research topic of their choice, discuss issues with experts in the field of research, work in discussion groups, debate and problem solve on selected issues. In the research seminar, the students are given an opportunity to integrate their knowledge, skills and practical experience gained in the program.□

Couse ID: 2009011712 Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism Industry

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism Industry□
□
Advanced topics in tourism industry and related concepts. Examine the components of the tourism industry, and the socio-cultural impact impacts of tourism on local, state and global environments. The relation between the different components of tourism industry, and the role of public and private sectors in this regard □

Couse ID: 2009011716 Description: Advanced Topics in Cultural Tourism and Cultural Heritage Tourism

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Cultural Tourism and Cultural Heritage Tourism□
□
Advanced Topics in Cultural Tourism and Cultural Heritage Tourism. The main characteristics of these types of tourism, and the main theories related to cultural tourists, and the resources of cultural tourism and cultural heritage tourism, and the cultural tourism products. □

Courses Description

College: Queen Rania'S Faculty Of Tourism& Heritage

Department: Sustainable Tourism

Course ID: 2009011721 Description: Presentation of Tourism Sites and Cultural Tourism Sites

Full Course Description: Presentation of Tourism Sites and Cultural Tourism Sites□

□
Presentation of Tourism Sites and Cultural Tourism Sites and operations related to this matter such as interpretation communication and education. The methodology of tangible and intangible cultural heritage. The interpretation for people of special needs and the services presents to public. The involvement of local communities in heritage interpretation.

Course ID: 2009011722 Description: Special Topic in Written Heritage

Full Course Description: Special Topic in Written Heritage□

Special topic in written heritage, inscriptions and manuscripts, and the importance of written heritage in the historiography. The methodology of inscriptions and ancient texts. The main types of written heritage in Jordan and the ancient Semitic inscriptions.□

Course ID: 2009011723 Description: Archaeology of ancient civilizations

Full Course Description: □

Archaeology of Ancient Civilizations□
The Archaeology of ancient civilizations, their history and archaeological remains. The main ancient near eastern civilizations and the impact of these civilizations on the various artistic, intellectual and historic aspects. The main civilization of ancient Jordan. □

Course ID: 2009011731 Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism and Cultural Sites Management

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism and Cultural Sites Management□

Advanced Topics in Tourism and Cultural Sites Management. The legislations, the national, and the international organizations dealing with cultural resources management. The adequate scientific methods in cultural resources management, and the methods of identification, evaluation, planning and management of cultural and Tourism sites. Types and methodology of cultural heritage sites visitor studies. □

Course ID: 2009011733 Description: Museums and Museum's Collection Management

Full Course Description: Museums and Museum's Collection Management □

Advanced topics in museums and museum's collection management. The methodology of scientific management and planning in museums. The Human resources management in museums, preventive conservation and disaster management. □

Course ID: 2009011743 Description: Tourism Economy and Tourism Marketing

Full Course Description: Tourism Economy and Tourism Marketing□

Tourism Economy and Tourism Marketing, investigates a range of approaches and issues associated with marketing destinations and the tourism experience, the challenges of contemporary marketing approaches to the development and promotion of sustainable tourism. Working through experiential exercises you will undertake research and marketing strategies reflective of current professional practice□

Course ID: 2009011752 Description: Applied Sciences in Conservation

Full Course Description: Applied Sciences in Conservation□

Introducing the advance chemical, geological and physical sciences and their applications in studying, analyzing and conserving archaeological materials. Highlighting computer applications and special programs in studying and documenting archaeological Martials. □

Courses Description

College: Queen Rania'S Faculty Of Tourism& Heritage

Department: Sustainable Tourism

Course ID: 2009011771 Description: Advanced Topics in Conservation

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Conservation□
Advanced topics in conservation science, methods in evaluating the archaeological sites and their main deterioration features. The usage of modern techniques and technology in understanding and implementation of conservation works. The preventive and remedial concepts and methods in conservation actions. Conservation plan methods, techniques, and their impact on archaeological sites. □

Course ID: 2009011781 Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism Planning

Full Course Description: Advanced Topics in Tourism Planning□
Analyzing and application of concepts, strategies, techniques, and approaches associated with destination tourism planning, development, and management. Emphasis is on integrated and sustainable tourism planning and development models at global, national, regional, and local community levels□

Course ID: 2009011791 Description: Special Topic in International Tourism

Full Course Description: Special Topic in International Tourism□
A comprehensive understanding of all aspects of international tourism and acquire the entrepreneurial approach by working alongside key industry partners to develop innovative solutions to real-life business challenges. You will also gain an insight into moral, ethical, environmental and legal issues allowing you to make a valuable contribution to the tourism and travel sector.□

Course ID: 2009011792 Description: Special Topics in Heritage and Museum's

Full Course Description: Special Topics in Heritage□
Special topics in cultural and Natural heritage assets that can become viable tourism attractions, the performing arts, historic sites and national parks. Topics include current and future heritage trends; the role of the organizations involved in cultural heritage tourism; and using heritage resources for economic development.□

Course ID: 2009011798 Description: Comprehensive Exam

Full Course Description: Comprehensive Exam (Pass/Fail Rates)□
In order to be eligible for the comprehensive examination, students must have completed all the core courses, have an overall average of '3' or better, and be a student in good standing. Core courses include the following: Advanced Topics in Tourism Industry, Advanced Topics in Tourism and Cultural Sites Management, Museums and Museum's Collection Management, Advanced Topics in Conservation, Advanced Topics in Tourism Planning, Special Topics in Heritage and Museums□

Course ID: 2009011799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 2009013799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 2009016799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 2009019799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: