

Courses Description

College: Educational Science

Department: Education Foundation And Management

Course ID: 302701 Description: Theories & Methods of Educational Supervision

Full Course Description: This course focuses on presenting and analyzing some modern supervision theories and techniques which enable students to develop theoretical concepts in the field of educational supervision that help them improve their supervision practice and promote their use of new supervision techniques. The focus will be on objectives- oriented supervision, cooperative supervision, clinial supervision, and intergrative supervision.

Course ID: 302702 Description: Educational Leadership

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302703 Description: School Management (2)

Full Course Description: The course covers school management definition, contents, importance, theories, methods, elements, principles, theories, principles, functions, processes and areas of application.

Course ID: 302710 Description: Educational Planning

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302712 Description: Educational Policies

Full Course Description: The course includes defining educational policy, educational professionalization, equal opportunities, and mechanism of decision-making in education, educational policy models, the basic educational issues and contemporary topics in educational policies

Course ID: 302714 Description: Development of Human Resources

Full Course Description: This course addresses growth and development , the objectives of development in relation to the educational process and the role played by education in developing the human cultural , economic and social resources . Education is presented as a fundamental change tool in society with a role in the development of the individual and the community and clarifying their identities.

Course ID: 302720 Description: Philosophy of Education

Full Course Description: The course deals with the following major issues: defining philosophy and education , the relationship between philosophy and education, the philosophic principles and educational implications of some major philosophies. Finally the course tries to enable students to analyze and evaluate the content of such philosophies in order to employ them in their educational work .

Course ID: 302722 Description: Comparative Education

Full Course Description: This course provider students the apportunity to explore an array of educationl administration and leadership issues and trends, closely examine an issue of their choosing using existing qualiative and quantitative data to address the identified prblem(s) .

Course ID: 302723 Description: Islamic Education Thought

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302726 Description: Education in Arab Countries

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302728 Description: Education History

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302730 Description: Political Educational

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302731 Description: Present Educational Thought

Full Course Description: This course emphesize on present educational thoughts, like (Deschooling) Ivan Ilich, and Palow Freiri thoughts in educational opression, Rogers thoughts in education, Brodinski thoughts in (back to basics), reconsructioning experiences doctrine (John Dewey), and differnt present educational thoughts like: distance learning, using nets and technology.

Courses Description

College: Educational Science

Department: Education Foundation And Management

Course ID: 302795 Description: Special Topics

Full Course Description:

Course ID: 302799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: Includes training in writing scientific research about topics and issues in education following the scientific method steps and procedures according to the style guide. Students will then be required present and defends the research project to examination committee, which is responsible for deciding whether he passes or fail.□
□

Course ID: 2302710 Description: Organizational Theory

Full Course Description: Overview of organizational concepts and theories to enable the graduate student to develop alternative bases for utilizing organizational theory in future study and practice within educational settings.□
□

Course ID: 3302799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: This course includes education concepts, types, functions, importance, institutions, and objectives, in addition to its relation to philosophy, society, culture, social change, social control, social mobility, socialization, development, learning, democracy, creativity, globalization and future.

Course ID: 6302799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: This course includes education concepts, types, functions, importance, institutions, and objectives, in addition to its relation to philosophy, society, culture, social change, social control, social mobility, socialization, development, learning, democracy, creativity, globalization and future.

Course ID: 9302799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: This course includes education concepts, types, functions, importance, institutions, and objectives, in addition to its relation to philosophy, society, culture, social change, social control, social mobility, socialization, development, learning, democracy, creativity, globalization and future.

Course ID: 110301701 Description: Theories & Methods of Educational Supervision

Full Course Description: This course focuses on presenting and analyzing some modern supervision theories and techniques which enable students to develop theoretical concepts in the field of educational supervision that help them improve their supervision practice and promote their use of new supervision techniques. The focus will be on objectives- oriented supervision, cooperative supervision, clinical supervision, and intergrative supervision.

Course ID: 110301702 Description: Educational Leadership

Full Course Description: This course is designed to provide students with the foundations for understanding educational leadership in the context of organizational transformation and to develop an understanding of the nature of leadership and its implications in the context of educational organizations. The key topics surveyed include: the nature of leadership, analyzing organizational culture and leadership, leadership theories, leadership and management behaviors.

Course ID: 110301710 Description: Organizational Theory

Full Course Description: Overview of organizational concepts and theories to enable the graduate student to develop alternative bases for utilizing organizational theory in future study and practice within educational settings.

Courses Description

College: Educational Science

Department: Education Foundation And Management

Course ID: 110301712 Description: Educational Policies

Full Course Description: The course includes defining educational policy, educational professionalization, equal opportunities, and mechanism of decision-making in education, educational policy models, the basic educational issues and contemporary topics in educational policies.

Course ID: 110301713 Description: Higher Education Administration

Full Course Description: The course covers such topics as: principles and practices of higher educational administration, the adminstrative theory, higher education system in Jordan and the world, methods of financing higher education, and administering the new productiv university. □
□

Course ID: 110301714 Description: Human Resources Development

Full Course Description: This course addresses growth and development , the objectives of development in relation to the educational process and the role played by education in developing the human cultural , economic and social resources . Education is presented as a fundamental change tool in society with a role in the development of the individual and the community and clarifying their identities.

Course ID: 110301720 Description: Philosophy of Education

Full Course Description: The course deals with the following major issues: defining philosophy and education , the relationship between philosophy and education, the philosophic principles and educational implications of some major philosophies. Finally the course tries to enable students to analyze and evaluate the content of such philosophies in order to employ them in their educational work . □
□

Course ID: 110301721 Description: Social and Cultural Foundation of Education

Full Course Description: The course deals with the theoritical bases on which sound educational practiices are built. It cover the philosophical , social, and cultural foundations of education, and the enfluence of different scientific disciplines on educational phenomena problems.

Course ID: 110301722 Description: a

Full Course Description: This course provider students the apportunity to explore an array of educationl administration and leadership issues and trends, closely examine an issue of their choosing using existing qualiative and quantitative data to address the identified prblem(s) .

Course ID: 110301724 Description: Economics of Education

Full Course Description: This course deals with Educational Economics, its fields ,limits , types and foundations, the relation between economy and education and the role played by education in the investment in man . The course ends with a look at Educational Economics in relation to cost, financing, income, expense , brain drain, professional distribution, and educational planning

Course ID: 110301731 Description: Present Educational Thought

Full Course Description: This course emphesize on present educational thoughts, like (Deschooling) Ivan Ilich, and Palow Freiri thoughts in educational opression, Rogers thoughts in education, Brodinski thoughts in (back to basics), reconsructioning experiences doctrine (John Dewey), and differnt present educational thoughts like: distance learning, using nets and technology.

Course ID: 110301788 Description: Research Project

Full Course Description: The course involves preparing micro or explorative research in the student's specialty field, and preparing report about this study consisting of 10000 words.

Course ID: 110301790 Description: Comprehensive Exam

Full Course Description: a

Courses Description

College: Educational Science

Department: Education Foundation And Management

Couse ID: 110301799 Description: Thesis

Full Course Description: Includes training in writing scientific research about topics and issues in education following the scientific method steps and procedures according to the style guide. Students will then be required present and defends the research project to examination committee, which is responsible for deciding whether he passes or fail.