Courses Description

College: Nursing

Department: Community And Mental Health Nursing

Couse ID: 701100	Description: First Aids

Full Course Description: The course aims to introduce students to the basics of first aid and how to act in emergency situations. Increase students' skills to provide assistance before paramedics arrive. Enabling students to know the cases of accidents, their symptoms, and ways to treat them

Couse ID: 701101	Description: Health Education

Full Course Description: This course aims to introduce students to the concept of health culture and the relationship of culture to health because of its significant impact on raising the individual's health, psychological and social competence and its impact on society. This course will highlight how to maintain health through behavior, nutrition, and environment. The focus will also be on behavioral variation and its negative or positive impact on health, especially the youth in Jordanian society. This course also aims to introduce students to the main principles of first aid necessary to deal with various emergency cases such as: resuscitation, trauma, wounds and bleeding, fractures, burns, shock and fainting, using problem-solving methods and creative thinking.

Couse ID: 701315	Description: Health Promotion and Disease Prevention

Full Course Description: Basic concepts of health from infancy to adulthood up to aging, how the health can be promoted, and preserving the suitable health level are basic components of this course. This course includes developing, practicing and evaluating a holistic health program. Another focus of this course is the application of the general safety measures of the surrounded environment of individuals, families, or/and communities.

Couse ID: 701316	Description: Biostatistics

Full Course Description: Providing students with foundations to evaluate information and skills critically to support scientific research course. The course emphasizes on statistical concepts, statistical and analytical methods used in health-related sciences such as nursing. Topics include the basic concepts of descriptive and inferential statistics, probability distribution, hypothesis testing, univariate and bivariate analyses which include correlation and regression models. Parametric and nonparametric tests are major milestones in this course.

Couse ID: 701404	Description: Mental Health Nursing /Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical part includes using and applying steps of nursing process as a general framework to get benefit of the course content, and clarify ways of dealing with clients who complain of psychological, mental, emotional, spiritual, or/and sociological problems that have mental or psychological effects. Students are trained in health care institutions or community settings.

Couse ID: 701412	Description: Community Health Nursing/Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical experience includes home visits, health education for clients, families according to the accurate scientific methods provided within a variety of settings with focus on the way of dealing and communicating with the elderly and providing care in the elderly settings.

Couse ID: 701421	Description: Clinical Practicum&Professional Adaptation

Full Course Description: This course is considered comprehensive and intensive training for nursing students, during which students are trained on a large number of cases and training settings to serve the development of their clinical skills.

Couse ID: 701451	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management / Theory

Full Course Description: This course aims to introduce students to the concepts of management, their theories and applications in relation to the nursing specialty and includes: Definition of the administrative process and its steps.

Courses Description

College: Nursing

Department: Community And Mental Health Nursing

Couse ID: 701452	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management / Clinical

Full Course Description: This course aims to introduce students to the concepts of management, their theories and applications in relation to the nursing specialty and includes: Definition of the administrative process and its steps.☐
including the application

Couse ID: 2701207	Description: Communication Skills

Full Course Description: General principles, concepts, and skills related to communication are provided to the nursing students to: communicate effectively with clients, families, colleagues, health team members, and others in their daily life; understand the human behaviors; and help individuals to adapt with their surrounding environment for the purpose of achieving the optimal level of health. It focuses on stimulating students to develop effective intrapersonal and interpersonal communication skills, and assist them to move from merely understanding of communication principles to their applications in life effectively.

Couse ID: 2701315	Description: Health Promotion & Disease Prevention

Full Course Description: Basic concepts of health from infancy to adulthood up to aging, how the health can be promoted, and preserving the suitable health level are basic components of this course. This course includes developing, practicing and evaluating a holistic health program. Another focus of this course is the application of the general safety measures of the surrounded environment of individuals, families, or/and communities.

Couse ID: 2701403	Description: Mental Health Nursing /Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of mental health, illness, and the cultural attitudes towards mental health patient are addressed. Special emphases are placed on the development of interpersonal skills, communication skills, and group processes. The course is based on a holistic and humanistic framework, emphasizing critical thinking, caring, and therapeutic nursing interventions. Nursing process forms the foundation of decision-making and encompasses all significant actions taken by nurses in providing relevant mental health care to all clients.

Couse ID: 2701411	Description: Community Health Nursing/Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of community health, types of communities, assessment manners, planning to protect community health, primary health care principles and means of delivering care to individuals, families, and groups are explored. The roles of the community health nurse are viewed from a multifaceted, dynamic, and interactive perspective within the limits of a changing environment. In addition, this course explores the role of the primary health in Jordan in promoting community health, in particular in rural areas.

Couse ID: 3701207	Description: Communication Skills

Full Course Description: General principles, concepts, and skills related to communication are provided to the nursing students to: communicate effectively with clients, families, colleagues, health team members, and others in their daily life; understand the human behaviors; and help individuals to adapt with their surrounding environment for the purpose of achieving the optimal level of health. It focuses on stimulating students to develop effective intrapersonal and interpersonal communication skills, and assist them to move from merely understanding of communication principles to their applications in life effectively

Couse ID: 3701315	Description: Health Promotion and Disease Prevention

Full Course Description: Basic concepts of health from infancy to adulthood up to aging, how the health can be promoted, and preserving the suitable health level are basic components of this course. This course includes developing, practicing and evaluating a holistic health program. Another focus of this course is the application of the general safety measures of the surrounded environment of individuals, families, or/and communities.

Courses Description

College: Nursing

Department: Community And Mental Health Nursing

Couse ID: 110701353	Description: Health Services Administration

Full Course Description: ☐
Health Services Management is a course that aims to introduce the student and provide basic information about accreditation and quality of health care

Couse ID: 110701403	Description: Mental Health Nursing /Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of mental health, illness, and the cultural attitudes towards mental health patient are addressed. Special emphases are placed on the development of interpersonal skills, communication skills, and group processes. The course is based on a holistic and humanistic framework, emphasizing critical thinking, caring, and therapeutic nursing interventions. Nursing process forms the foundation of decision-making and encompasses all significant actions taken by nurses in providing relevant mental health care to all clients.

Couse ID: 110701404	Description: Mental Health Nursing/Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical part includes using and applying steps of nursing process as a general☐ framework to get benefit of the course content, and clarify ways of dealing with clients who☐ complain of psychological, mental, emotional, spiritual, or/and sociological problems that☐ have mental or psychological effects. Students are trained in health care institutions or☐ community settings.

Couse ID: 110701405	Description: Ethics of Science and Technology

Full Course Description: New trends of nursing as a profession, Code of Ethics of local and international standards, ways for developing the nursing educational systems are explored. This exploration will help in upgrading the nursing profession standards in synchronism to the development of other life aspects. Ethical and legal dimensions of nurses' practice and legal issues related to health care practice specialties in Jordan are investigated as well

Couse ID: 110701411	Description: Community Health Nursing/Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of community health, types of communities, assessment manners, planning to protect community health, primary health care principles and means of delivering care to☐ individuals, families, and groups are explored. The roles of the community health nurse are☐ viewed from a multifaceted, dynamic, and interactive perspective within the limits of a☐ changing environment. In addition, this course explores the role of the primary health in☐ Jordan in promoting community health, in particular in rural areas

Couse ID: 110701412	Description: Community Health Nursing / Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical experience includes home visits, health education for clients, families according to the accurate scientific methods provided within a variety of settings with focus on the☐ way of dealing and communicating with the elderly and providing care in the elderly settings.

Couse ID: 110701427	Description: Primary Health Care Nursing

Full Course Description: The course provides theories of community nursing and primary care for providing care to individuals and families.

Couse ID: 110701428	Description: Geriatric Nursing

Full Course Description: This course will provide information on the care of the elderly. The theories and concepts of aging, the physiologic and psychosocial changes and problems associated with the process, and the appropriate nursing interventions are discussed

Couse ID: 110701451	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management / Theory

Full Course Description: Emphases of this course are placed on understanding various leadership and management concepts, theories, and models, particularly decision-making and problem solving strategies.

Couse ID: 110701452	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management / Clinical

Full Course Description: Emphases of this course are placed on applying various concepts, theories, and models of☐ leadership and management. This course aims at providing the students with knowledge☐ and skills needed to help the students to act as leaders and managers after graduation.

Courses Description

College: Nursing

Department: Community And Mental Health Nursing

Couse ID: 150701208   Description: Communication Skills

Full Course Description: General principles, concepts, and skills related to communication are provided to the nursing students to: communicate effectively with clients, families, colleagues, health team members, and others in their daily life; understand the human behaviors; and help individuals to adapt with their surrounding environment for the purpose of achieving the optimal level of health. It focuses on stimulating students to develop effective intrapersonal and interpersonal communication skills, and assist them to move from merely understanding of communication principles to their applications in life effectively.

Couse ID: 150701315   Description: Health Promotion and Disease Prevention

Full Course Description: Basic concepts of health from infancy to adulthood up to aging, how the health can be promoted, and preserving the suitable health level are basic components of this course. This course includes developing, practicing and evaluating a holistic health program. Another focus of this course is the application of the general safety measures of the surrounded environment of individuals, families, or/and communities.

Couse ID: 150701403   Description: Mental Health Nursing/ Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of mental health, illness, and the cultural attitudes towards mental health patient are addressed. Special emphases are placed on the development of interpersonal skills, communication skills, and group processes. The course is based on a holistic and humanistic framework, emphasizing critical thinking, caring, and therapeutic nursing interventions. Nursing process forms the foundation of decision-making and encompasses all significant actions taken by nurses in providing relevant mental health care to all clients.

Couse ID: 150701404   Description: Mental Health Nursing/ Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical part includes using and applying steps of nursing process as a general framework to get benefit of the course content, and clarify ways of dealing with clients who complain of psychological, mental, emotional, spiritual, or/and sociological problems that have mental or psychological effects. Students are trained in health care institutions or community settings.

Couse ID: 150701405   Description: Ethics of Science and Technology

Full Course Description: The most important scientists of ethics is a sense of responsibility towards humanity in general, do not seek to abuse what God was built, and the secretariat of knowing that the world stands at what science knows with certainty, and does not provide what was taught and thought it just a guess. The values represent the moral center of gravity in the cultures of nations, the more rigidity of moral values, the more able to protect its civilization, the more began to abandon their ethics and their presence has offered to collapse and fall, those are the years of being God. And Bioethics is the study of ethical issues that arise in the areas of health care and biological sciences.

Couse ID: 150701411   Description: Community Health Nursing / Theory

Full Course Description: The concepts of community health, types of communities, assessment manners, planning to protect community health, primary health care principles and means of delivering care to individuals, families, and groups are explored. The roles of the community health nurse are viewed from a multifaceted, dynamic, and interactive perspective within the limits of a changing environment. In addition, this course explores the role of the primary health in Jordan in promoting community health, in particular in rural areas.

Couse ID: 150701412   Description: Community Health Nursing / Clinical

Full Course Description: The clinical experience includes home visits, health education for clients, families according to the accurate scientific methods provided within a variety of settings with focus on the way of dealing and communicating with the elderly and providing care in the elderly settings.

Courses Description

College: Nursing

Department: Community And Mental Health Nursing

Couse ID: 150701427	Description: Primary Health Care Nursing

Full Course Description: This course will assist students develop advanced skills in primary health care activities such as health promotion and prevention. Areas such as screening strategies, smoking cessation, nutrition and healthy eating, alcohol management and physical exercise advice and management will be covered. In addition, students will learn to apply the principles of health teaching and adult learning to health promotion.

Couse ID: 150701428	Description: Geriatric Nursing

Full Course Description: This course will provide information on the care of the elderly. The theories and concepts of aging, the physiologic and psychosocial changes and problems associated with the process, and the appropriate nursing interventions are discussed.

Couse ID: 150701451	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management/ Theory

Full Course Description: Emphases of this course are placed on understanding various leadership and management concepts, theories, and models, particularly decision-making and problem solving strategies.

Couse ID: 150701452	Description: Nursing Leadership and Management/ Clinical

Full Course Description: Emphases of this course are placed on applying various concepts, theories, and models of leadership and management. This course aims at providing the students with knowledge and skills needed to help the students to act as leaders and managers after graduation.

Couse ID: 170701253	Description: Introduction to Nursing Informatics

Full Course Description: This course focuses on understanding the use of information technology in nursing practice, education, research, and administration. The course intends to increase information technology literacy, knowledge and skills for undergraduate nursing students. Consideration is given to the effective and efficient management of information, including accessing, retrieval and evaluation of information from different courses, documentation and storage of information. Models and theories of nursing informatics are presented. Legal, ethical, economic, and cultural issues in information technology are discussed.

Couse ID: 170701354	Description: Special Topics in Health Informatics

Full Course Description: This course focuses on understanding the use of information technology in nursing practice, education, research, and administration. The course intends to increase information□ technology literacy, knowledge and skills for undergraduate nursing students. Consideration is given to the effective and efficient management of information, including accessing,□ retrieval and evaluation of information from different courses, documentation and storage of information. Models and theories of nursing informatics are presented. Legal,

Couse ID: 2207011221	Description: Psychosocial Aspects of Nursing Care

Full Course Description: The concepts of mental health, illness, and the cultural attitudes towards mental health□ patient are addressed. Special emphases are placed on the development of interpersonal□ skills, communication skills, and group processes. The course is based on a holistic and□ humanistic framework, emphasizing critical thinking, caring, and therapeutic nursing□ interventions. Nursing process forms the foundation of decision-making and encompasses□ all significant actions taken by nurses in providing relevant mental health care to all clients.